MORSEL FARINA Thomson critical

SYDNEY CITY coach Eddle Thomson criticised the dismissal of Tony Morsello and Frank Farina after yesterday's Apia Leichhardt - Sydney City match at Lambert Park.

Morsello (Apia) and Farina (Sydney City) were shown the red card by referee Gary Power in the 29th minute for alleged serious foul play as Sydney City won 4-0.

"He (the referee) should have just got gether and settled them down," Thomson said.

The two strikers were involved in a midfield battle for possession when Morsello appeared to grab Farina's shirt.

After the ball had been played, both players swung an arm at each other, and Power quickly intervened with the red card. He later dismissed Apia sweeper Arno Bertogna for alleged persistent misconduct after having alBY BRAD EARL cautioned.

Five other players, Apia defenders Frank Casaccia, Mark Casaccia, Mark Brown and Ian Row-den and Sydney Ci-ty's John Kosmina and Murray Barnes, were also booked.

"I think he gave away the yellow card too cheaply to start with," Thomson said. "You can get over these things without the book," he concluded.

Meanwhile, Thomson will put Graeme Fletcher into the starting line-up for Sydney City's NSL Cup tie against Melbourne club Green Gully on Wednesday night.

Fletcher, a young striker, has been kept out of the first team by Farina, John Kosmina and Grant Lee, but he gets his chance to impress due to Farina's automatic one-match suspension.

Thomson will have to check on the fitness of captain Mur-ray Barnes, who in-jured his back in a clash with Apia Leichhardt goalkeeper Bob Catlin.

TODD DUE BACK

BY NEIL JAMESON

DEREK TODD back in time as part of a full-strength Newcastle to meet Sydney Croatla at Adamstown on Saturday?

That's the hot pros-pect in Newcastle this week as Rosebud fans look forward to welcoming back their star striker from England and two other key players from the injury list.

While Newcastle were confident of finalising Todd's im-migration papers this week, Simon Brandt and John McQuarrie are likely starters for what will be their first competition match this season.

The dual absence of Brandt and Todd, both strikers, has been particularly costly as Newcastle have been creating plenty of chances but have lacked the fin-ishing punch usually provided by specialist finishers.

McQuarrie's ballwinning skills are vit-al to Newcastle's midfield effort and his return to training was a real bonus for coach Willie Gallagher.

ALTHOUGH It's still nine months away, it was a bit like New Year's Eve at St George Stadium yesterday when Sydney Olympic downed St George 1-0 in a hard-fought tussle.

Midway through the afternoon, the old year was rung out and the new year rung in!

The old year being of course the exhibition game between the elderly stars of yesteryear of Saints and Pan Hellenic and the new year being the young lions of today in the colours of Sydney Olympic and Saints.

On hand to play the part of "Old Father Time" was none other than the old maestro himself Ferenc Puskas.

Midway through the first half, a bad pass by Brett Thornthwaite almost brought a goal for Monaro when stopper John Santolin sent a long ball through for Bil-ly Willox to run onto, but his shot scraped the De-mons bar.

Blacktown scored the solitary goal in the 32nd minute when O'Connor sent over a perfect cross from the right for Larkin to head in.

Penrith2

FROM hero to near villain, that was the story of Canberra City's import Tom English after Penrith had snatched a 2-2 draw in the 90th minute at Jamison Oval.

English, who looked to be suffering from heat exhaustion, had just hit the post from close in after collecting a long ball from fullback John Mihaihdis.

The striker, not yet acclimatised, did not have enough energy to trot back onside while the ball travelled to Canberra's end where a Dave McIntosh piledriver was just the goal-kick, English was caught on the wrong side of the line. The resulting free-kick found Randell Easthorpe who scored from the middle of a ruck of players just inside the area.

The result was a fair one in a game that as keenly contested but never of a high standard.

After 40 minutes of more effort than skill a goal was needed to bring the game to life. Two goals followed in the space of half a

Terry Byrne nodded in a Peter Burke header which had come from a free-kick. Penrith's Robert Hebb may have got a further fine deflection but Byrne claimed the

Before Canberra players had stopped congratulating each other, Ian Wotherspoon, only a few days after arriving back from Britain, beat Roy Jones on the right and

OWN GOAL SINKS SYDNEY CROATIA

Wollongong2

Sydney Croatia.....1

WOLLONGONG City created enough chances themselves but had to rely on an own goal to beat Sydney Croatia 2-1 in yesterday's game at Wollongong Showground.

With the teams locked at 1-1 after 79 minutes, Wollongong full-back Phil Matias sent an optimistic looking lob into the Croatia penalty area.

Unfortunately for Croatia player-coach Vedran Rozic, it glanced off his forehead out of the reach of goalkeeper Greg Woodhouse and into the net.

It was the second tragedy for Croatia in the space of three minutes as rugged defen-der Bruno Vidaic had just been sent off. Referee Terry Seacy showed Vidaic the red card when he tackled Wolves winger Bernie Godzik after having previously been cautioned in the first half.

Everything seemed to be happening at once as Vidaic's dismissal came just after Jim Patikas had put the visitors level.

Patikas always looked like posing danger to Wollongong and his 73rd minute equaliser seemed almost inevitable.

The former Sydney Olympic midfielder appeared all over the park and Wollo were never really able to pin him down. and Wollongong

Patikas had two great scoring chances in the first half but both times sent angled

After a scoreless first half Wollongong shocked Crostia with a goal just 30 seconds after the interval.

It came after left winger Dominic Gian-none cleverly eluded full-back Alex Kovacio and sent over a high curling cross which had the defence in all kinds of trouble.

After the ball had bounced almost in the coalmouth Godzik swooped between defenders to head it home.

Croatia's supporters had reason to be disappointed with their team's finishing but Wollongong coach Adrian Alston was full of praise for his players.

"We went out with a plan and when it wasn't working in the second half were able to adapt ourselves and take the points,"

Alston said.

'Midfielder Zivko Hristovski and Scott Dickson at the back were outstanding and I'm sure some of the top teams will be worried about this result."

KIM'S SAVE SAVES CITY

Adelaide City1 Brisbane City1

WHILE he did not have all that much to do in the 90 minutes he spent at Olympic Sports Field in Adelaide, Brisbane City goalkeeper Kim Wishart emerged as one of the visiting heroes in a 1-1 draw.

With 30 seconds remaining, Adelaide City midfielder Charlie Villani charged onto the ball and cracked what looked like the winning goal until Wishart tipped the ball over the bar.

It was one of the few exciting moments in a match marred by a strong wind and possibly the fact that both teams had lost their opening

Nerves were in evidence as passes and shots went astray.

The home team had taken the lead in the 17th minute when Fortu Costanzo, in his first NSL season, met a cross from full-back Mike Donnelly, also in his debut year, and nodded the ball into the net.

It was looking good for the home side until the 32nd minute when, ironically Donnelly made a short pass back to goalkeeper Willie McNally

Stephen Glockner intercepted and sent the ball to Alan Reis who slotted it home.

BY TOM McKAIN

Into the second half and Brisbane began to improve with Reis a menace when on the ball, threatening to lay on goals or score himself.

But it was Frank Mengotti who raced down the middle and hit a shot which McNally had to tip over the bar.

Then the ball was in the net for Brisbane from Peter Carey in the closing stages, and as referee Jim Rossis indicated a goal, linesman Paul Smallman signalled for an infringement and it was still 1-1.

Perhaps this made up for what home fans claimed was a penalty on Joe Mullen by Garry Bromfield late in the first half.

Brisbane were undoubtedly happy with the draw, while Adelaide had nothing to celebrate.

LIONS TRAPPED BY OFFSIDE

Brisbane Lions1

West Adelaide.....0

BRISBANE Lions will not win any honours this season until the side comes to grips with the offside rule.

That was painfully obvious in the Brisbane team's 1-0 win over West Adelaide at Richlands.

Lions, who had to reshuffle their side following the late withdrawal through injury of central defenders Alan Hunter and Rod Vasquez, could well have won the match by a bigger margin but for a scries of second half offside decisions which became boring through their monotony.

As coach Gordon Arrowsmith said: "By not putting away the chances we are keeping the other side in the game."

Obviously players will be quick to criti-cise the match officials, but even allowing for any errors of judgment and there appeared to be few - Lions forwards still made some stupid runs.

Clark Anderson and Joe Cairney were the worst offenders, but it is not that they are bad players, just over-enthusiastic. The pair are getting into their positions but sometimes too quickly, or the ser-vice is being delayed too long by teammates.

It was Cairney's quick running and silky skills which created Lions' winner in the seventh mi-nute. He broke fast down the right then wrong-footed West's Ian McGregor before playing a pinpoint cross to the far post for the unmarked Tom McGregor to nod into the net.

West, who were without five regulars, had their best scoring opportunity fall to George Konstan-dopoulos in the 33rd minute.

He broke through a flat Lions defence, but a fine save by keeper Wayne Evans denied the equaliser.

It was one of the times West broke through the Lions defence which was superbly mar-shalled by youngster Steve Jackson whose display as sweeper, after being switched from full-back, was faultless.

Jackson, who is hoping to force his way into the Socceroos, was not beaten throughout the match and his dis-tribution always produced results.

West Adelaide keeper Gary Sproul also was in good touch and a one-handed save off Cair-ney in the 85th minute was one of several fine efforts.

EDITORIAL FULL-TIME QUESTION MUST BE ANSWERED

IN this World Cup qualifying year, one of the most important points to be raised in Australia's quest for Mexico '86 is whether or not Frank Arok should go full-time as national coach.

Arok of course coaches National Soccer Lesque club side St George in addition to the national team.

The original suggestion when Arok was appointed Australian coach a year ago was that he should step down as Saints supremo in July this year.

However, upon his return from the Socceroos' world tour in December, Arok was not in favour of stepping down from club duties.

His view is that he will not have enough work to do as a full-time national coach in Australia.

He believes he can also handle his St George responsibilities until the end of the National League season.

The NSL divisional play-off is scheduled to be completed two weeks before the World Cup series gets underway. So, If St George were to win their way through, Arok would be involved with his club team right up to two weeks prior to the first match on September 21.

St George may not get that far, but is it worth the risk to Australia's chances in the most important football competition in the world?

ASW believes Arok should go full-time with the national team in June at the expense of his club commitments.

The national team will be playing their final warm-up matches in the World Soccer Series in the last week of July and the first week of August.

Arok must settle on his World Cup squad against top European club sides in the WSS.

Therefore his selections for that series will be vital to Australia's Cup chances, and to do the job properly Arok should take in as many NSL games as he possibly can.

Even though Arok settled on the nucleus of his squad on the world tour, that planning could be aftected by events of the next few months.

Therefore the rule should be run over Victorian, South Australian and Queensland players in the Southern Division of the NSL in addition to Northern Division players to enable Australia to be represented by the best possible players available.

To do the job properly for Australia, we believe Frank Arok must sacrifice his St George job mid-season and go fulltime as national coach. What do you think?

IF finances and opportunity had permitted, which players from other National League teams would you have liked to add to your squad?

that question were put to all coaches, we would probably determine the real value of the League's most indemand players.

In the absence of such a poll, we can report that Sydney City's Eddie Thomson would have considered Joe Senkal-(Newcastle) and Peter Tredinnick (Apia Leichhardt) as valuable gains. Joe stayed at home and Peter went to Marconi.

Sydney Olympic's Manfred Schaeter mentioned recently that Newcastle's dynamic duo of Simon Brandt and Ralph Maier would have been high on facts, is a collection of players who didn't make it with their previous clubs. And none of them, apart from Dave McIntosh, can be said to have changed that impression last season, or in the recent Ampol Cup final," the Melbourne-based scribe wrote.

The Panthers took a point off St George in their first match of the new NSL campaign, and as coach Willie Wallace said, 'that's not bad from a side run on a shoestring.

SYDNEY CROATIA are now known as the "moneybags" team of the NSL's Northern Division.

The club lashed out $25,000 for Jim Patikas and followed up soon after with a $22,000 offer for lan Gray.

Croatia was also keen to spend a huge amount to buy Marshall Soper before he decided to stay with Sydney Olympic.

JOHN SPANOS phoned ASW to tell us he is very fit after training consistently with Sydney City and Is anxious to get fixed up with a new club.

Spanos is transferlisted by Marconi, who would probably around accept $5,000 for this very useful utility player.

FORMER Adelaide referee Robert Hughes has made a blg impact on the Brisbane scene.

Hughes, who moved to Queensland, has been given several key and tough pre-season clashes, but im-pressed with his onfield manner, nononsense approach and closeness to the action.

PENRITH'S problems did not end when they found sufficient cash to retain NSL status early this year.

The players have been paid but coach Willie Wallace was still waiting to get his money last week.

Willie has worked hard for the team for the past couple of months but he is not an amateur: after all he has to pay his bills.

FOUR CLUBS VIE FOR MITCHELL

BY TOM MCKAIN

DAVID MITCHELL will be at the centre of a four-way struggle for his signature when he returns to Australia this week.

While Adelaide City have made a verbal agreement over the phone with the Socceroo striker who fell out with Glasgow Rangers' manager Jock Wallace, South Melbourne have stepped in with a counter

No sooner had they made this than West Adelaide joined the bidding.

But Mitchell is due to land in Sydney and will be staying there for two days to "tidy up some

It is understood he will be seeing his old boss, Eddie Thomson of Sydney City, and it is odds-on they will ask the front-runner to again join their line-up.

West president Frank Karagiannis said he wanted it made clear his club was not entering a fight with Adelaide City for Mitchell.

"We will step in only if he does not accept City's terms," he said.

"We do not want to see him going to South elbourne or returning to Sydney. We would Melbourne or returning to Sydney. We would be prepared to sign him on a one-year contract if that's what he wants."

UK RETURN

Adelaide City have offered Mitchell a lucrative two-year contract.

However, if the Socceroos do not qualify for next year's World Cup Finals in Mexico, he wants to return to the UK where at least one Scottish club wants him and Watford and Chelsea in England have expressed interest.

Mitchell has been released on a free transfer back to Australia - provided he does not return to the UK inside two years.

If he does, Rangers want the $32,000 they gave him to sign on.

Despite the interest by other clubs, Adelaide City president Charlie Caruso is con-fident Mitchell will stick with City, the team he

"Our offer is a very attractive package," said Caruso.

"I've spoken to David several times on the phone and also to his father, who lives in Adelaide, and I'm certain he will be playing for us."

It is understood the package includes a house which will be put up by one of City's major sponsors, Fairmont Homes.

They told the club earlier this year that if it could find a top player they would back him during his stay with the club.

The ASF could easily run an argument along the lines that the NSL would be unhappy over having too many inroads into its clubs' playing staffs if the Olympics are pressed.

There is little doubt that clubs would suffer. Shoulder counthis with his belief that the clubs would be the nett gainers if the gap bet-ween Under 20 Youth internationals and the Australian 'A' team is filled by Un-der 23 Olympic players.

PETER KATHOLOS, Sydney Olympic's dashing midfielder, has been in the doldrums during the past two seasons but says 1985 will be the year he proves the critics wrong.

"My problems at club level flowed on to the national side. I was selected in the 'B' team for the World Soccer Series but missed the Socceroos' world tour in the off-season.

"Our differences have been solved and now my aim is to get back into the Soc-ceroo team."

'CASUALTY'

On his day there is no better midfielder in Australia.

The 23-year-old is a "veteran" of the NSL with 166 appearances.

But his career took backward turn when Les Scheinflug was dropped as national coach in 1983. "I suppose I was a casualty of the Scheinflug reign," he said.

"When Les was sacked I was only sparingly used in the national team."

Katholos, who has represented Australia at schoolboy, youth and senior levels, encountered problems midway through the 1983 season.

"When Frank Arok took over the national took over the national team while Les was away with the Youth side in Mexico, I played one full game in the series against England.' Katholos said.

His performances with St George during the 1979 season and the following year were noticed and he gained his first National appearance in a match against In-donesia in Melbourne in 1981.

Katholos joined Sydney Olympic in 1981 and his first two years were very rewarding. Many people believe he hasn't maintained that fine form during the past two years.

'Too much too soon' - Graham Taylor

YOUTH STARDOM IS

THE coming to Canberra City of former England Youth International Tommy English highlights the fact that everlasting fame for young soccer hopefuls can never be taken for granted.

Young players who hit the spotlight in the international arena at youth level some-times hit the depths at the same speed they reached the top.

It's a situation that happens throughout world and one every young player — especially at national youth level — should watch.

Tommy English, at 23, is a prime example of what can happen to a young player who seems destined for stardom with the world his oyster.

By saying this, I want to make it clear that this is not an obituary for English's career.

VEHICLE

I sincerely hope that at Canberra he can pick up the pieces of his career and this Australian experience will be the vehicle required to get this fine young English First Division. Let's take a look at what has happened to English over the past few years.

Not so long ago, he was a member of the successful English youth team that won the world mini-cup.

His team-mates were AC Milan and England's Mark Hate-Spurs Gary Mabbutt and Arsenal's Tommy Caton.

He was in Coventry's first team and everything in the English country garden was a bed of roses.

Then came a transfer to Leicester in exchange for Scottish star Jim Melrose, now leading Man-chester City back to the First Division.

Things went wrong at Leicester and En-glish landed at Fourth Division Colchester as a non-contract player in their re-

Wise words indeed from one of the most respected managers on the English scene.

England manager Bobby Robson reck-ons that going on from a good youth start provides as much about character as ability.

Robson is adamant that footballers must be durable and must have the correct attitude, me it is a de-manding profession with lots of pitfalls.

He is also of the opinion that young players need good guidance on and off the field.

Once again, like Taylor, Bobby Rob-son is 100 percent correct in his opinion.

Here in Australia, Soccer has had a marvellous production line since the introduction of the national youth team in

What we must do is strive to stop any of our brilliant youth players from falling

The onus is on the NSL club coaches and Australian Institute of Sport and national youth coach Jim Shoulder.

But we must strive to keep the fall-out figure as low as possible - even if it does take the arrival of players like Tommy English to Australia to remind us

"'Alan will be speaking to Frank be-

"It is a forerunner to a big programme for the national side this year, including the international series and the World Cup qualifying matches," Constantine said.

Queensland was sadly lacking in mid-field and up-front against NSW last year and on that basis compounded by the lack of in-form goalgrabbers in Queens-land — it seems a packing of the midfield is on the cards.

Stowell refuses to elaborate at this early stage but it seems he will be relying largely on Lions' John and Russell Stewart, John Ogden and possibly even Young Soc-ceroo Richard Bassingthwaighte.

FORMER Australian Youth International Mike Milovanovic is relishing the challenge of captaincy with Brisbane City this year.

And, by taking over as City's stopper from Frank Liddell, "Milo" hopes to win Liddell's Queensland shirt for the Anzac Day clash with New South Weston

At this stage of his career, though, Milovanovic has re-servations about winning a national squad

"I'm quite happy being captain of Bris-bane City and hope-fully making the Queensland team," he said

However, Milovanovic will have a major battle with Brisbane Lions' Alan Hunter for the state stopper position vac-ated by Liddell, who is in Scotland.

Milovanovic joined Brisbane City in April last year after spend-18 months in in North kav Queensland.

"I was transferred in my job to Bris-bane," Milo recalls, bane," Milo recalls, in off the street and started training with Brisbane City.

"I was in the first team within a couple of weeks, but I really didn't get fit until the last few games of the season, which thought were my best games of the year."

"The Santa Moni-ca Golden Oldies will be a spectacular experience," said. "I have already seen it with Rugby Union where 2,000 retired Australian players have en-tered for these Gol-den Oldies."

Besides all the razzamatazz of Hollywood celebrities, the festival has attracted world-class footballers such as former West Ham star, the immaculate Trevor Brooking, and Liverpool's goal-ace Kenny Dalglish.

Captain of Scot-land's 1978 World Cup side, Don Masson, will also be at Santa Monica with a team entered in the tournament.

The first Austrahan club to enter a team is Blacktown, who will be taking a squad of 20 players across to California for this soccer-funholiday-festival.

Other Sydney clubs to have entered teams are Penrith, Canterbury and Sutherland, whilst Melbourne and Brisbane have nominated two squads each, with another team travelling from Perth.

Names like Jack

Curry, Frank Nobbs, Brian Smith, all past great Australian players, will be boarding their Air New Zealand aircraft heading for California.

'DUTCHY' EXCELLED IN SOCCER AS WELL

WHEN Robert "Dutchy" Holland starred in the fifth cricket Test against the West Indies he had come the full cycle in sport.

Perhaps, had he lived in one of the capital cities and not Newcastle, international success would have come much

Bill Turner, who taught Holland in his schooldays, had this

That is a great statement to make about any player, be he or she in cricket, soccer or any other sport.

Speaking of soc-cer, Robert Holland was a very handy player as well as cricketer

In his team at Booragul High School in Newcatle's Lake Macquarie district 20 years back was also Dennis Wright, one of the handlest soccer players around when he turned out with Sydney Croatia and also in the Newcastle competition

I have spent many weeks with Rod on his farm outside of Houston, Texas, and most of those hours discussing Australian sport.

My most recent visit was last December when we spent a week together taking in the multimillion dollar American sports scene

His recent article in THE AUSTRALIAN has a deep message for Australian sports apart from the obvious American sports scene it is directed towards.

A WARNING

FOR AUSTRALIA

AMERICAN EXPERIENCE IS

ABOUT 10 years ago in Australia I wrote a futuristic column about the fate of sports and franchises in the early part of the next century.

I wrote of a somewhat barren society with players receiving normal salaries and prizemoney geared to what they drew through the turnstiles.

A worldwide recession had forced sponsors to mostly abandon sports and sports television advertising and the golden age of money in sports was a thing of the past. The moral of the column was that sports and franchises had to steal a line from a very old Sunday g, "Build church | school song, "Build upon the rock and not upon the sand.'

Sport had, in fact, built its foundation on outside sponsors Himsy foundation that was always in danger of erosion and collapse

At the heart of the problem was the ver-greedy sportsman himself who kept demanding, and receiving highlyinflated salaries and prizemoney structures that stretched the financial budgets to breaking point.

ER/OSKOW

Now, 15 years before the turn of the century, American sport and its multitude of franchises are facing crosion of their monetary found-ation. The sand is beginning to wash away.

While the situation has not yet reached catastrophic proportions, the signs are definitely there for a bleak financial future unless the problems can be arrested.

Consider these pertinent facts

• IN the National Football League, three ams : nver, Dallas and San Diego were sold this past year and New Orleans is about to be sold. Only one franchise, San Francisco, had been sold in the previous seven years.

Also in the NFL there have been two franchise moves in a bid to start afresh in new cities and increase income.

• THE Philadelphia franchise, awash in red ink through its football club problems and personal monetary debts of its owner Leonard Tose, had to be saved from liquidation. The average player's salary has more than doubled from $78,500 to $162,000 since 1980. This is due to excessive player de-mands and the establishment of the rival United States Football League which has forced the NFL into a cheque-book over the signing of players.

L083E8

• THE NFL management council beheves that many of its 28 teams will lose $500,000 or more in the next season. The average club could be losing as much as $3 million a year by 1986. The council expects only six teams to be in the black in 1986 and total losses by all clubs could easily reach more than $60 million.

• THE USFL, after two years of operation, lost a collective $80 million for its 18 clubs in 1984. This forced the fledgling league into a massive overhaul in which clubs folded and others were moved to more appealing cities. The USFL has been pruned to 14 teams.

The USFL recently filed an anti-trust suit against the NFL and has announced its intention of playing head-to-head with the NFL in the fall and winter of 1986. move is designed to force a merger with the NFL. The NFL, already facing its own major financial problems, will fight the USFL's merger plan to the bitter end.

• BASEBALL is struggling too, and new commissioner Peter Ueberroth let slip recently that no less than eight of the 26 baseball franchises are currently up for sale. Ueberroth would not elaborate on the names of those franchises.

 PROBABLY the most telling fact is an across-theboard decline in television ratings -- with the exception of basketball - that has all sports administrators running scared
While the NFL

Superbowl and the Olympics fared well on American television, 1984 coverage of regular NFL football games declined 16 percent on ABC and four percent on NBC. The ratings on ABC and NBC lowest since regular

As television ratings fall, advertisers are now loath to inject big dollars into waning telecasts which means the television networks cannot offer increased rights to sports and sports franchisers to telecast their games.

RIGHTS FEES

The NFL, for example, has a $2.1 billion contract with the three networks which produces about $14 million annually for each of the 28 teams. That $14 million in turn provides about 60 percent of the income of many franchiscs.

The NFL's contract with the networks expires in early 1987. In order to continue meeting the everincreasing expenses, the NFL will need to negotiate a huge in-crease in its rights

However, with a downward trend in television ratings the NFL is hardly likely to be successful.

The result: more red mk for the NFL owners. The NFL is only one sports group affected by the problem. It is true that the NFL and other sports are not without extre-gled the mind. They have begun to disappear from the screen and the cut backs this year will be mely wealthy owners who can keep their significant. Already ABC has cut its spring pro bowling tour and the long standing "American Sportsman" senes.

The previously un-touchable ABC Wide World of Sports is being cut from 90 to 60 minutes starting in May Rights fees contracts are now being written with clauses that protect the television network or cable network from low ratings.

MINIMAL

The trend in future years on the net-works is likely to be less overall coverage but more concentration on high-profile events of general na-tional interest. Cable networks will probably be forced to coverage of more regional interest.

As the television industry does some housecleaning it is likely to have only a minimal effect on the problems facing sport. The housec leaning may reduce the proliferation of sport but it won't necessarily increase the ratings of the major sports.

networks The themselves have given sports in general and franchises in particular enough warnings on the subject of how depressed ratings and revenues will eventually be passed along to sport.
The warnings are there to curb player salaries and cut expenses, because television and its advertisers are not going to pay the freight.

So far only one sport, pro basketball has made a positive move to meet the problems bead-on.

Last year the National Basketball Association reached a landmark decision with the NBA Player Association, the trade union, on an anti-drug agreement by far the most forthright and comprehensive approach to drugs taken by any sports organisation.

There is no doubt that inflated salaries coupled with the con-stant reports of drug abuse and arrests of athletes have been a turn-off for the sports

The system appears to be working Not only is it keeping expenses under control, but basketball crowds are at their highest level ever and the final play-off game between the Boston Celtics the Los Angeles Lak-ers in 1984 produced a super television rating . . . again the highest ever by the NBA.

It is a start but American sport has a lot of hård work ahead of it to stop the financial erosion.

Arok's concern with getting his national team players to peak mental fitness around the end of the year is not misplaced, as we watch the revitalised Kosmina.

John Kosmina is extremely effective in his role as central striker with Sydney City.

He works hard, knows where he is running, and why — all of the time.

He shields the ball, shoots accurately with either foot, and heads exceptionally well.

They are continually hitting him as he receives the ball with legitimate challenges that can still be very bruising.

Most of the time he has his back to them Kosmina and Marshall Soper have both

One in, one out at the Ridge

LATE pre-season moves this week proved good and bad for Premier League club Acacia Ridge.

Back at the Ridge is Ipswich United striker Murray Kitching, while talented midfielder Brad Ryan has requested a move to Olympic United.

Kitching played with great success at the Ridge three seasons ago. He came on loan then and could possibly play under the same terms this season, but the club is now considering buying him outright

Ryan has developed over the past two years as one of the Ridge's hardest-working players and will leave a sizeable void in

Brian Addison's team The former Goodna and Lions player was in fine touch in early pre-season matches but has not played for nearly a month after injuring an ankle during a Silver Boot match at Richlands

Ryan is the second member of last season's semi-final side to leave Proud Field

Tough defender Norm Bell is trailling at Lions and now has been given permission to play until May

But in the meantime, Addison snaring former Mareeba State League striker Geoff Mayes on a free transfer.

Addison believes Mayes could be one of the stars of the Premier League this season.

In other Premier League news, Mount Gravatt have enlisted the aid of Senator Boswell to get mid-fielder Marty Kirsopp back from England.

Kirsopp wants to gain permanent residency in Australia, other-wise he will stay in Newcastle (England).

North Star goalkeeper Bob Vuksan could be back in action within weeks after sustaining only a hairline fracture of the cheekbone in a clash at Perry Park a week ago. It was originally thought his jaw may have been broken.

The Queensland Soccer Federation management committee may be asked to rule on the transfer of talented youngster Andy Ogden. Ogden is out for the season after doctors found a back Andy, the brother of Lions player John Ogden, was playing with Coalstars and almost certain to be signed from Olympic when the injury was diagnosed.

BANKSTOWN SIGN

BANKSTOWN NA-TIONAL have strengthened their squad for the coming New South Wales State League season with the signing of young striker Tony Caban.

Caban came through from the successful 1983 Newcastle KB United youth team to the club's NSL squad last year, but when KB United folded he joined Melbourne NSL outfit Footscray.

BY FRANK COLETTA

Tony is the nephew of Apia Leichhardt centre-forward, Kerry Caban.

Bankstown National have also secured another young player, Paul Darlington from St George.

They also have another former former Saints man in their midst . . . goalkeeper Don Smith

Bankstown National's secretary Mr Amed is certain that Bankstown will do well this year: "We'll surprise a few teams this term, as we did Melita in the prescason senes."

GOOD news for Parramatta Melita followers is that one of their "crocks", Paul An-dricopoulos, is well and truly on the road back.

Andricopoulos suffered a bad knee injury at the end of last season but he is now back in full training.

Still to return for the Eagles are regular first teamers Ray Farrugia, Billy Griffiths, John Davies and Alec Jamieson.

Highly-rated young triker Wayne striker Farnsworth has begun light training but is not likely to play for quite a while yet.

SURELY the turnabout of the season thus far has been that of

A month ago they were in nothing short of a shambles (as re-ported in ASW's Febmary 19 issue)

But things have changed.

In a dramatic revelation, coach Chico Vojnovic told of the woes of his side, all of

After four rounds of the pre-season series they were on top of Group B, undefeated on seven points

The point they dropped was in a postponed match versus Rockdale, which cannot be played so the points were shared.

Coach Vojvovic is unmoved by the success of the side: "We are still organising as AFTER Warringah Narrabeen failed to win any of their first three pre-season games, coach Ljubo Gojovic was moved to say: "We can't expect to match the big clubs like Manly, Rockdate and Melita.

"We are not a wealthy club and have struggled lately. In fact for most of last season the club was battling relegation, eventually finishing third last.

NSW STATE LEAGUE PRE-SEASON SERIES

IT'S AN AVALA POLONIA FINAL

ON what was a typical summer's day, Ku-ring-gai took hold of the lead against Group B leaders Polonia after 14 minutes and refused to yield in defence from then on.

It was such a day that it was hard to expect 100 percent from the players but both sides gave it and more

The match tapered off slowly in the sec-ond half and by the final minutes players were so effected by the heat that they were begging to be replaced.

Ku-ring-gai certaindominated the first half, hitting the front in the 14th minute when man of the match Mark Nile put a beautiful pass to Neil Hunter, who drew out the goalie Marcon and neatly tucked the hall home

Although Ku-ringworked hard for their lead, Polonia began playing like a team of new faces and on occasions looked as though they hadn't been introduced to each other.

However Polonia got their act together somewhat during the second half and were unlucky not to score when a shot by Pop was cleared off the line.

Late in the second half Ku-ring-gai were down to 10 men after Nue limped off with a pulled hamstring. He was unable to be replaced because both replacements were already on the field.

Nile is subsequently in doubt for next week's match against Melita, which is tragic luck for the youngster who was by far the best on the park yesterday as he con-tinually took on his opponents and beat

For Polonia Henry Sobczyk did a lot with the ball and Pop was in good touch

IN a very rugged match where four men were booked, Group A leaders Avala downed the persistent Bankstown National side

In a muggy, humid atmosphere, Avala were repeatedly unlucky not to score.

An even opening 20 minutes ended with inside forward Ray Carney scoring, to give Avala a halftime lead of 1-0.

It was a fine match to watch, not lacking commitment or goalmouth action from both sides. In fact many people at the expressed game their surprise at the fast pace the match was played in.

Glen Jeffery sealed the match with a pen-alty kick in the second half, but Bankstown were not throwing in the towel.

Their persistance paid off when a looping cross was headed into the Avala net . . . albeit by Avala's defender John Lembryk.

It was quite notice-able after this that the morale of the Avala side lagged quite a bit and once again sounds out a warning that on occasions their temperament can work against Avala's win left them with 10 points out of the possible 10 and playing Polonia in the pre-season final which should make for an interest-ing match.

IN the second match of the afternoon at Chopin Park, between Sutherland and Rockdale, a cooling breeze provided comfort for the spectators but judging by the stan-dard of play on the field it did nothing for the players.

The only goal of the game came at the 12th minute mark when 18-year-old Andrew Duncan converted an opportunity from close range

A cross was whipped across by Gray from the left flicked on by Nigel Groome and Duncan was on hand to score.

Despite Rockdale's huge following and reputation, Sutherland took the game up to their opposition and were by far the better team and wholly deserved their win Apart from Ross up-front, Rockdale had little to offer and looked like a side suffering from all the experimental had. Sutherland's was an all-round team effort with only Groome standing out.

"FUNNY things can happen in soccer" . . . it's a hackneyed phrase but can be so true as Melita found out yesterday against Manly at Cromer Park.

Melita dominated the match entirely and should have was comfortably, instead through two second half lapses in defence they went down 2-1. Manly officials were quick to admit after the game that they were lucky.

Harry Courm, president of the Manly club, said: "Melita were the better side and should have won, but we took our two chances and took the points."

Ron Beattie claimed: "Melita played the better football and our keeper lan Barker was forced to make some good saves."

Kenny Wilson opened the scoring for Mehra after 12 minutes and from then on Mehta's midfield of Wilson, Vial, Jamieson and Griffiths (both back from injury in this match) took the game in an iron-like grip

Apart from Wayne Pierce hitting the crossbar with a header, Manly never looked like replying to Wilson's goal.

Then in the last firm minutes Manly struck and mainly through the strong running by centre-forward Mark Holloway.

Holloway scooted clear in the 75th mi-nute and crossed only to see a hand-ball occur outside the area. From the ensuing free-kick John Dick was served by Tom Steven and belted 18 metre shot into

With a minute of injury-time on the watch, Holloway was off again this time he got inside the area and was brought crashing down by the Holloway lifted himself up and duly converted penalty to give Manly victory.

SHOOTING SKILLS ARE SO VITAL

By NSW Director of Coaching, Alan Vest

GOALSCORING is the essence in soccer.

The superiority of one team over another may be gauged by the number of goalscoring chances each team creates

But that's only part of the story, for unless chances are turned into goals that superiority will not be converted into victory.

Often when we practice shooting or when players go out on their own, they merely hit shots at the goal-keeper from a standing position.

This is okay for working on techniques of striking a ball or even for goalkeeper practice, but a lot of good practices are where players are put into situations as nearly as possibly identical to the shooting chances that occur in a competitive game

Only rarely are players allowed the luxury of shooting for goal "in their own time" with no challenge coming in. Even in these carcumstances there is usually a recovering defender chasing back not very far away. A drill-type practice which allows practice at running with the ball, knowing a defen-der is chasing, but able to work on accuracy and getting the ball past the goalkeeper in between the posts, is:

• Player B faces A about two metres apart on halfway line. B knocks ball past A, who turns to try and score. B becomes recovering defender.

Watch matches shown on TV and note Watch how goals are scored. Usually the scoring player is under heavy pressure from challenging opponents.
That's why it's often important to practice shooting for goal with opponents very much in attendance.

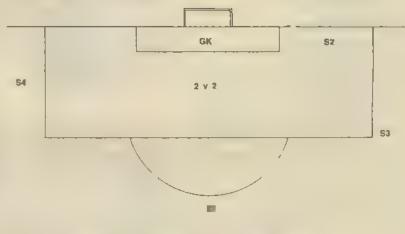

· This can be done in a simple 1 v 1 situation where the attacking player must firstly attempt to best a defender before hitting his shot on target.

Always in your shooting practices try to include all or some of the following elements:

- 1. Proper goals and of course a goalkeeper.
- 2. Opposition either in the form of a recovering defender or a defender you must pass Sometimes even three or four defenders between you and your team-mates.
- 3. Work with varying serves. For example, balls being crossed into penalty area, through-balls, cleartices to try:

Eight players change to different roles and goalkeeper:

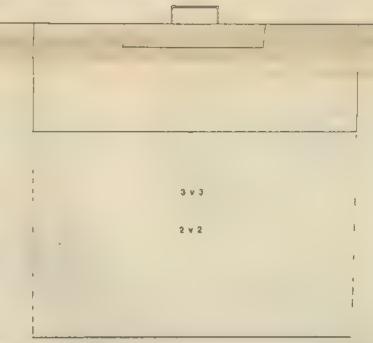

S1 - plass sel to attackers from central position

S2 — crosses ball from flanks

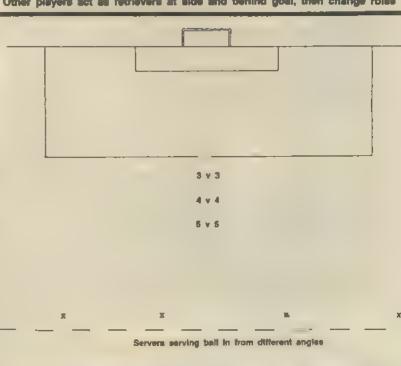

S3 - pulls ball back to attackers from goal-line S4 — throws ball in to give practice from half-clearances

3 v 3 or 2 v 2 plus goalkeepers in normal-sized goals:

Small area gives plenty of opportunity for shots.

Other players act as retrievers at side and behind goal, then change roles

REMEMBER, GOALS WIN GAMES!

She was magnificent, despite coming off at the end of the match completely shat-tered and covered with abrasions.

SUSAN MONTEATH, Queensland captain and vice-captain of the Australian team, turned in a spectacular, world-class performance for Australia in the World Women's Invitational Tournament in Taiwan against the United States.

Australia dropped a valuable point in the tournament in the first match, allowing Japan a 2-2 draw, yet still looked lethargic against a far more physical USA

That is until Monteath made her presence felt with fierce, timed tackles that repeatedly broke up the American build-ups.

A free-kick 30 metres out taken by the Australian captain Julie Dolan in the 24th minute, saw little Margaret Petrov, making her debut for Australia in the midfield, race in from the right and blast a vicious, first-time shot at the target.

Although the giant 6'1"

The blonde Monteath, time after time raced across from her midfield position to execute splended covering tackles to save Australia

Twelve minutes before halftime, Monteath ripped her way through the American midfield from her own half, to unleash a 30 metre thunderbolt shot that screamed centremetres past the Americans' left post.

Five minutes after half-time, USA levelled the scoreline from close-range and it was not until five minutes from the end that Monteath combined with Dolan to set up Leigh Wardell for a 15 metre drive for the winner.

Monteath was superb, with her magnificent performance for Australia, giving a display of strong, non-stop tackling as well as linking up to get her strikers going. It was an outstanding, world class performance, the best I have ever seen from an Australian player Margaret Petrov and striker

Last season he took over a disjointed Kuring-gai equad and lifted them through to fifth position.

This year he is with Avala, but he will have to hand over the reins when he takes the Australian Under 16s to China in late July. Surely this will be his biggest test in soccer. He successfully brought his Australian squad through the Oceania tournament in Auckland in De-cember 1983 to win the trip to Beijing (Peking).

Currently he is secretary of the big Ku-ring-gai District Association, which covers a huge slice of Sydney's north shore sydney's north shore and through to the Hawkesbury River. He is former secretary of the NSW Amateur Soccer Federation. As a player he reached St George's reserve grade and then are grade and then obtained an advanced coaching badge with the NSW churches FA. Rod says: "The FIFA Under 16 tournament is the best thing to happen to junior soc-

VICTORIA'S Alan Alexander came to Sydney recently to help in preparation of the Under 16 Socceroos for the China trip. He is currently assistant coach of the Victorian Under 16 team and previously coached the Garden State's Under 13, 14 and 15 teams.

FIFA has made a surprising reversal

This arrangement has been torn up and players must now be born on or after August 1, 1968, which was the original arrangement.

National Junior Council secretary Rod Woods said that this would oblige U16 Socceroo coach Vic Dalgleish to further review eligibility of players for the squad, which will compete in China from July 31 to August 11 this year.

IN A.C.T.

THE appointment of Karen Grega as the ACT Soccer Federation's development officer represents a great leap forward for the code in the National Capital.

The plot is to actively market soccer and provide a more professional level of administration to further the game in the playing, refereeing and coaching areas of operation.

Soccer will be promoted through the media and to other local and interstate soccer bodies

More importantly still, every en-deavour will be made to reach the business sector and the community generally.

Karen Grega has a particular insight to ACT affairs having worked in marketing and advertising at Capital 7 TV for two and half years. She holds a Batchelor of Business Communications degree. In 1983, she was full-time ex-ecutive administrator of Canberra Arrows in the NSL.

Her standing is further enhanced by having played the sport in women's ranks and refreshing for three years in Queensland.

Success in this appointment will clearly demonstrate the value of full-time development officers in other states

It is generally recognised that big soccer states such as Queens-land, Northern NSW and NSW cannot continue to progress with-out more professional staff.

Queensland has made organisational progress thanks to the on the spot availability of this region-al directors of coaching in cities throughout the state.

Coaches, being employed on a full-time basis, are able to keep a weather eye out for organisational innovations as well.

The ACT has just on 6,000 junior players plus 80 local senior teams playing in competitions as diverse as local amateurs through to the National League.

BUMPY ROAD TO SUCCESS

BY FRANK FINLAY

MORE help is needed for junior and schools coaches from country towns and cities far removed from the capitals of Australia.

This is my definite summing up after seeing boys from the south and west of NSW gather for trials for country selection at Parklea.

The boys try to prove that they are worthy of positions in the U/13, 14 and 16 NSW Country junior representative

For many the going is not easy. They may have blunt determination or even style, but they can lack polish and potential star qualities.

Where they fall by the wayside I can only hope that they realise that not everyone can Only too often the reason for their not reaching acceptable standards of football is that the coaches and "father" coaches who look after them do not fully under-stand what is re-quired of them.

I do not blame the parents for their willingness to assist, but without an additional layer of specialist coaches not enough can be accomplished.

I hope that under people such as NSW director of coaching Alan Vest we will be able to get a good country service so that the players and the game can go ahead. In past days Eric Arneil did much for the country in this regard.

It seems to me that there are a few lads who have outstanding acumen and a robot-like sense of timing that indicates outstanding potential.

If they continue on as they are doing they will later be able to win a place in the gigantic overseas soccer market.

Players such as Puskas, Kocsis, Pele, Rossi, Facchetti, Cruyft, Ball, Moore and Beckenbauer have thrilled much of the world.

I have seen a few boys who can taunt and invite opposing players to charge in the Gerry Francis

It is to be hoped that the moves being made in country soccer and by local NSW coaches will produce a few such players to grace the Australian

SCHOLARSHIP FIRST FOR

THE Queensland Junior Soccer Council will create an Australian first by offering an overseas scholarship this season.

The scholarship has been made possible following a sponsorship from Theiss Contractors, with the assistance of Lufthansa German Airlines.

A player will be selected from the state's thousands of juniors to spend three weeks in Енгоре,

This is the first time in Australia that a state junior council has offered an overseas trip to an indi-vidual. It's a tremendous incentive for every young soccer player and certainly a step in the right direction for the code."

☐ GEORGE PAGAN

Queensland Junior Soccer Council president Andy Boscacci said.

The Theiss Con-tractors Youth Scho-larship will be offered to a player aged between 14 and 15 years and will be announced following the state championships in July.

Players can nate for the award through their zone coach. The winner will be picked by a panel selected by QJSC.

In addition to the coaching at Hennef, the player will take part in games against Dutch and West German youth teams. The scholarship is an extension to the highly successful Lufthansa Youth Soccer Tours, which under the direction of state Under 15 coach George Pagan, are in their fourth year.

MAJOR PROJECT FOR BATHURST

THE entry of Bathurst 75 into the NSW Youth League certainly poses problems of logistics that exceed even those of the other seasoned travellers. Central Coast and Illawarra.

Travelling from the Gosford and Wollongong areas to matches is one thing - from Bathurst and Oberon is another!

To come from well over the Blue Mountains to every away game is a huge task to under-take, especially where four teams playing at different kick-off times are involved.

Local official Bruce Rooke is confident costs have been cut to the bone and every attempt is being made to maximise the revenues.

Backing up the club is a good sponsorship from Sportscene, who recently entered the sports equipment supply business in Bath-

The idea is to hire three mini-buses to cart the squads to their away games. Home fixtures have been set down for Proctor Park, Russell St Bathurst, which is headquarters for the local association.

Bruce Rooke believes that Bathurst 75 will thrive in '85 without causing undue hardship for local clubs in Mitchell Association.

He said: "We have found that many of the best young players in the area have come back to the game to join our teams.

"They found that there was not enough competition for them in local grades and are looking for the challenge that Youth League football will bring."

Last season the local association made a valiant attempt to join the NSW Youth League under its own banner.

Now they have made it thanks to the Bathurst 75 Soccer Club, which, like other Youth League newcomers Campbelltown City, operate seniors in NSW State League Second Division.

TOUGH COMPETIT

GRADINGS made for the 1985 U13/U16 Youth League will ensure more even competition for clubs in membership.

Close results cannot of course be guaranteed right through the grades. Some clubs might be strong in one or two grades and weaker in others. However, an overall decision needed to be made to ensure the best matches that could be arranged as all grades must play in succeeding matches on the same

This year the competition kicks off on Sunday week (March 31) and thereafter Saturday fixtures will be played.

Results are to be phoned to competition secretary Howard Smith 686 1503 by the representative of the home club/association between 5.30/7pm on the day

The full groupings are: GROUP A: St George Assn, Sydney Olympic, Apin Leichhardt, Nepean Assn, Sutherland Shire Assn, Blacktown City, Marconi Fairfield, Illawarra Assn, Granville Assn, Canterbury-Marrickville.

GROUP B: Melita Eagles, Baulkham Hills, Centra, Coast Assn, Sydney Croatia, Southern Districts Assn, Ku-ring-gai Assn, Manly Warringah Assn, Avaia, Gladesville-Hornsby Assn, North Bankstown.

GROUP C: Macarthur Assn, Bankstown Assn, Blacktown Assn, Sydney City, Canterbury Assn, Sydney Yugal, Campbelltown City, Bathurst 75, Rockdale Ilinden.

CAMPBELLTOWN ENTRY BOOST

CAMPBELLTOWN CITY have taken the big jump and will be playing in the NSW U13/U16 Youth League this season.

Securing the satellite city and the huge area that surrounds it is certainly a coup for the League.

It is essential that the soccer code has a big presence in the area, which will continue to be one of the main growth areas on the perimeter of Sydney.

Campbelltown has been included in Group C along with the local Macarthur Association, so there will be big local derbies ahead.

Campbelltown's home ground will be Lyn-

A FUN in the sun holiday soccer camp will be staged on the Gold Coast next month.

The camp, at Tal-lebudgera from April 9-12, will feature some of the best soccer coaches and former players in Queensland, includ-ing Col Bennett, Jim Hermiston, Ron Mill-man and Matt Carson.

Similar type camps were staged several years ago and proved to be huge successes.

Camp organiser Matt Carson said the emphasis would be on learning soccer while having fun. "There will be no pressure to perform brilliantly, as long as the boys learn something while having a good time," he said.

Activities at the camp, which will cost $120, will include not only expert coaching volve sessions of gymwork, volleyball, tennis and swimming.

McNAUGHT FACES BUSY SEASON WITH SCHOOLS

GREG McNAUGHT, of East Hills Boys High School, has taken over the post of NSW Combined High Schools soccer convenor from long serving Gareth Williams.

He faces a very ac-tive season which will open with matches in the boys' and girls' knockout cups, commencing on April 19.

Once again the Commonwealth Bank Soccer Cup will be the big event for the boys. A total of 273 high schools have entered this magnificent competition.

The girls compete for the Ku-ring-gai Cup. It is a mark of the increasing popularity of soccer amongst the fairer sex that a splendid to-tal of 207 high high schools have entered the competition this year

HOLDERS

Current holders of the Cup are Epping Boys High School, and Oxley High School, Tamworth, for the girls.

It takes a deal of grit and ability to win through and claim the trophy.

Last year Epping had to beat Balmain, Cromer, North Sydney, Normanhurst, Davidson, White-bridge (Newcastle Region) and Cabramatta before win-ning the final 1-0 from Henry Kendall of Gosford at Marconi Stadium.

North Sydney Region will host this year's Boys InterRegional titles under excellent conditions at Manly-Warringah's Cromer Park, Dec Cromer Park, Dee Why, from June 25-27.

Girls Inter-Regional takes place at Mar-coni Stadium from July 16/18.

The Australian Championship moves to Canberra this year from September 2-7.

Departmental approval has been requested for an eight-day tour of New Zealand's North Island for both the NSW Open boys and girls teams.

This would take place in the first week of the August school holidays, just prior to the Austra-lian Championships.

Venables, who has steered Barcelona to a huge lead in the first division, wants teams to get four points for a win, two points for a score draw and only one for a scoreless draw.

Surprisingly, most coaches in Spain like the Venables plan.

One who doesn't is Enzo Ferrari of Real Zaragoca, who says: "Changing the points system has not improved English football and I don't see why it would improve our game."

But Venables says: "I am happy most coaches agree with me because it proves they are all in favour of more attacking football."

QUESTIONS were asked in the Italian Parliament about a football match between Napoli

The game was drawn but television replays indicated Napoli had scored a perfectly good goal which the referee refused to award.

Unfortunately, the disallowed goal cost millions of Italian Football Pools punters hard cash and they are naturally angry about it.

Barcelona success was never easy

WiTH Barcelona now just about certain of the Spanish first division championship, life has become a little easier for manager Terry Venables and his assistant Alian Harris.

The pair, however, deny they have had an casy passage.

Harris said: "People in England who say this job has been simple have no idea of what is involved.

"Right from the start, we had to tighten discipline - and convince the players that they had to ac-cept it."

British coaches have failed many times when they've ventured into Europe, so it would be wrong to under-estimate the magnificent job achieved at Barcelona by the Venables-Harris duo.

There are now strong rumours that Venables will return to England as boss man at QPR but, if he Nearest challengers Celtic, meanwhile, were surprisingly beaten at home by Hibernian 1-0.

Aberdeen now lead Celtic by eight points, although the Glasgow side still has two matches in band.
